Our firm has extensive experience in private insurance law cases. Apart from car accident cases and claims arising against insurance companies due to those accidents, our firm has a significant experience in life and non-life insurance cases.

In addition to cases subject to national law, our firm is also experienced in cross-border private insurance cases. In particular, we have provided our legal services in private insurance cases before the Greek Courts representing British citizens for damages that have taken place in Greece. Moreover, we have been consulted as expert-witnesses concerning the applicable substantive Greek law in cases before British Courts.

We have also provided our services in cases of carrier liability insurance for both domestic and international transport (land, sea and air), in court and out of court.

Last but not least, our firm has been extensively involved in cases of return of insurance premiums from insurance intermediaries (insurance agents, brokers, consultants) to insurance companies and particularly in every aspect of these cases: claims before civil courts, actions securing the claims, representation before criminal courts.
